

The number in each square represents area density $\rho = \rho(x, y)$ at the center of the square, in grams per square centimeter.

The number in each square is a function value $z = f(x, y)$ representing depth in feet at the center of the square.